1. Take stock

- [ ] Preview the tracklist and the song count of the playlist.
  Know the size before you decide how to organize it.
  YouTube Music Playlist Export · Free music playlist tracklist

- [ ] Note which artists dominate, and which songs you no longer listen to.

2. Separate and sort

- [ ] Split audio tracks from music videos into two new playlists.
  Useful when you want a car or workout playlist without music-video versions. It creates new playlists and never edits the original.
  YouTube Music Playlist Splitter

- [ ] Remove duplicate songs, including the same track added from different versions.
  Repeats are the most common reason a playlist feels off.
  YouTube Playlist Duplicate Remover

- [ ] Sort the remaining tracks in an order you will actually use.

3. Save what you love

- [ ] Like all the songs in a playlist you want to keep in your library.
  Liking songs one at a time is slow on a long list.
  YouTube Music Playlist Bulk Like
- [ ] Skip songs you do not want in your library, so likes stay meaningful.

4. Protect and maintain

- [ ] Export the final tracklist to a spreadsheet as a backup.
  YouTube Music Playlist Export
- [ ] Check the playlist for deleted or unavailable tracks every few months.
  Find Deleted or Private Playlist Videos · Free hidden video checker
- [ ] Add new finds to the right playlist as you go instead of letting a backlog build.
